PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

The LED flashlight is a multifunctional device that may be used not only as a room or a campsite illumination, but also during hiking or climbing, as well as while observing and tracking animals in the forest. This compact hand-held torch is equipped with many useful functions that make it irreplaceable while performing everyday tasks.

The flashlight has two cool 7000K light sources: the main LED SMD diode and the side LED COB light. Each of them may work separately enabling to adjust the intensity of illumination, or simultaneously, giving full control over the light.

The LED SMD flashlight has 9 different operating modes. The SMD diodes have high, medium, low and strobe lighting modes, as well as SOS in case of emergency situations. The side LED COB diodes have high, medium, low modes as well as red light that is helpful in many situations.

The in-built zoom function enables to adjust the beam angle to your own needs; this makes the device multifunctional and precise in use.

What is more, with the help of a carabiner you may fasten the torch to a backpack or clip it in any place to have it always at hand.

The four colour caps applied on the main source of light are additional advantage. Each of them is used differently – the white one is for light scattering, the red one facilitates night vision without eye strain, the blue one highlights traces (blood, sweat) while tracking animals, and the green one makes the light almost invisible to animals.

The flashlight is powered by 1200mAh battery easily charged via popular USB C input. Thanks to it, you do not need to carry additional batteries. When the battery level is low the buttons backlight in red signaling that there is time to re-charge.

IPX4 of ingress protection level secures the device from external factors, such as moisture or gentle splashing.

The housing of the flashlight is grey-orange and measures 171x34 mm.
